Growing up, my father was an entrepreneur. He was always coming up with new ideas and creative ways to do simple tasks. Because of this upbringing, I have become very passionate about product development. I have completed multiple internships related to product development. At the moment, I am hoping to transition into a full time position in the consumer goods industry.

In the past, I have had a hard time when my job is slow. I enjoy staying busy and productive, so I get frustrated when I am board. Given that this is such a challenge for me, in my last position, I emailed other sales representatives to ask if there was anything I could do for them. At the end of the internship, my manager actually said that she appreciated my flexibility and initiative when I was in a slow period.
